Federal Reserve Has $800,000,000 Waiting For Banks to Borrow

WASHINGTON—The Federal Reserve has quietly begun to line up behind President Roosevelt's credit expansion program.

It is tapering off its weekly purchases of government securities—last week to the extent of $4,000,000. The New York bank also pared its rediscount rate from 2½ to 2 per cent.

All this is being done to encourage member banks to borrow so they can extend credit. The Federal Reserve's excess reserves for this purpose are now at the record breaking figure of $800,000,000.

Soviet Skvirsky

The man who had most to do with Roosevelt's step to recognize Russia was Boris E. Skvirsky, unofficial Soviet ambassador in Washington.

Twelve years ago this month, Skvirsky was a Communist official in Chita, a town on the Trans-Siberian Railway. Suddenly he got telegraphic orders from Moscow to come to the United States as representative of the Far Eastern Republic.

The Republic was a Soviet subsidiary set up to get the recognition of the United States at the Washington Arms Conference. In this Skvirsky failed. He came to Washington, but got no recognition from the State Department.

He has been here ever since. During that time he has had no official recognition from anyone.

But unofficially the State Department consults him frequently. When they want something done in Russia they see Skvirsky. When Lindbergh wanted to land in Siberia, he saw Skvirsky. When former Secretary of the Interior Wilbur wanted to rescue some marooned Americans in the Bering Sea, he saw Skvirsky.

There has been at times agitation against Skvirsky. But he could not be deported. He came here before immigration restrictions. He is a Communist, but has engaged in no propaganda.

Recently Skvirsky performed the crowning work of his career. He relayed to Moscow Roosevelt's telegram inviting Litvinoff to Washington. Roosevelt had no other way of sending the message.

Having achieved this, Skvirsky has asked to go back to Moscow. He does not want to remain here as Ambassador.

No Loosening Up

There will be no loosening of the taut bars of the Securities Act.

Despite terrific behind-the scenes pressure from banking and big business quarters, the President not only will keep the Act intact, but is determined to enforce it to the hilt. That is the reason behind his recent appointment of Professor James M. Landis, of Harvard's law school, to the Federal Trade Commission, which has jurisdiction over the measure.

Thirty-four years old, Felix Frankurter "boy," and one of the most enlightened minds in the legal profession, Landis helped write the act, can be depended upon to see that it gets 100 per cent execution.

"RESIGN? NO!" SAYS IMMELL; TRUAX TO ACT

Yellowbud Man in Louisville as Investigation Opens Thursday

10 APPROVE LETTER

Bucyrus Man Says He's Acting With F.D.R. Okeh

A statement that he will not resign and that the dispute between himself and Congressman Mell G. Underwood is a personal matter was made to reporters in Louisville, Ky. today by Robert L. Immell, Yellowbud, vice president of the Federal Land bank at Louisville.

"I heartily endorse an investigation covering my work in connection with the Farm Credit administration. I shall continue to fight to the last ditch in the interest of farmers who desire loans," he declared.

Immell's statement came on the eve of an investigation by the office of Henry Morganthau, Jr., governor of the Farm Credit organization. T. L. Gaddis, chief appraiser in Morganthau's office, will conduct the investigation after Congressman Mell G. Underwood, C. V. Traux and Charles West brought charges that Immell is not in accord with the aims of the government.

TRUAX TALKS

Truax, a Bucyrus man, was in Columbus Thursday and said he was ready to present the results of an investigation conducted by himself to Mr. Gaddis in Louisville. "I shall file charges of malfeasance, misfeasance, and incompetency against officials and appraisers in charge of Farm Loan work in Ohio," Mr. Truax said. He announced that his investigation had the support of the President.

Five charges were listed by Truax. They were:

1. Malfeasance, misfeasance and incompetency against all officials and appraisers.
2. Conspiracy to disrupt the Farm Loan act.
3. That the officials are Hoover Republicans plus pseudo-Democrats who are completely out of sympathy with the administration, its acts and aims.
4. That land values are seen through eyes of Hoover Depression instead of Roosevelt New Deal and are on confiscatory values.
5. That all these misfits shall be fired.

DEMOCRATS SIGN

Another angle entered the controversy today when it was learned a letter bearing names of 10 members of the Pickaway-co Democratic executive committee declaring their support to Mr. Immell, was to be sent to Louisville Wednesday or Thursday.

Of 13 members of the committee interviewed by a local Democrat, not a member of the committee, 10 signed a statement giving their support to Mr. Immell. Only three refused, it is reported.

The committee several weeks ago voted to ask Immell's resignation after Underwood blamed the Yellowbud man for failure of the Farm Credit administration.

HOSKINS WATCHES LOBBY ACTIVITIES

Special Senate Committee Gathers Again Today In State Capitol.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 25.—Watched by the prosecutor of Franklin-co, who is conducting a "private inquiry" into legislative lobby activities, the special Senate committee investigating the cost of textbooks in Ohio schools and related subjects gathered in Columbus today to resume its probe.

Revelation of the activity of the county prosecutor's office with regard to lobbying at the recent session of the state legislature was made late yesterday as the stage was set for the resumption today of the Senate committee's investigation.

The Senate committee has been prying into alleged "high pressure methods" used by representatives of school textbook companies in an effort to place their products in Ohio schools.

Working separately, County Prosecutor Donald J. Hoskins has been privately investigating lobby activities for some time, it was learned. Among those who have been questioned was the manager of one of the leading hotels in Columbus where lobbyists have established headquarters.

AT FARM CONFERENCE

Guy Dowdy, emergency Wheat administrator for this county, was in Columbus Wednesday and will remain Thursday attending an extension conference at Ohio State university.

Men's Clubs Hear Judge Whitcraft

150 Attend Excellent Meeting At Methodist Church Tuesday Evening.

One hundred and fifty men, members of the Presbyterian and Methodist men's clubs with a few guests, enjoyed another fine inter-club meeting Tuesday evening. The Methodist men were hosts to the Presbyterian club in the former church, supper being served at 6:45 p. m. by ladies of the church.

The feature of the evening was an address by Judge Harley Whitcraft, of the Hocking-co common pleas court. Judge Whitcraft, an able barrister and equally as able as a speaker, used as the basis of his interesting address the laws of the nation and the need of their enforcement. The assistance of the church in building leaders to direct the nation's course was stressed by Judge Whitcraft.

"The same basic laws which prevailed in Moses' day are the ones with which we have our most trouble," the speaker said. "We

Offers $31.36 Per Ounce As Purchase Begins; Is Above World Price.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Embarking upon President Roosevelt's dollar control plan, the government through the RFC today announced the new purchase price of gold at $31.36 per ounce.

The price was agreed upon at a treasury conference attended by Jesse Jones, chairman of the RFC, Acting Secretary of the Treasury Dean Acheson, and Henry F. Morgenthau, Jr., head of the farm credit administration.

The new price was $1.56 above yesterday's price of $29.80, and $10.69 cents above the Saturday price as fixed in 1834. Federal reserve gold is still carried on the treasury books at $20.67.

The RFC will accept subscriptions for its Monday debentures today payable in newly mined gold from natural deposits in the United States and its territories.

This indicated the government would buy all the gold offered.

The new price was above the $30.99 offered in London this morning which is generally accepted as the world price.

INITIATION FATAL TO SCHOOL YOUTH

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 25.—A fraternity initiation turned into a tragedy here today, when Edward Briggs, 15 year old high school boy, was crushed beneath a tombstone in an abandoned cemetery while he was attempting to climb the monument.

The boy is near death, while his 23 schoolmates who, horror-stricken, watched the accident were released after questioning by police.

Edward was led blindfolded into the cemetery in one of those hocuspocus ceremonies boys deem necessary for testing new members of their secret societies.

BANK DEPOSIT BOX MAY HOLD KIDNAP CLUES

Police Seek Supreme Court Order to Search Gorch's Property

LETTER IS CHECKED

'Break' Hoped for in Lindbergh Mystery

BOSTON, Oct.25.—While police sought the writer of the "Judas letter" which betrayed John Gorch, 37, alleged confidence man and newest Lindbergh case suspect, into their hands, investigators representing four law enforcement agencies today sought to establish any possible connection between him and the $50,000 ransom money.

The anonymous letter, written either by a man or woman, was so accurate regarding Gorch's alleged criminal record, that officials felt the writer might be correct in linking Gorch with the Lindbergh case. Gorch previously had been questioned but was exonerated.

GO TO COURT

Gorch told Lieut. James Finn of the New York police, Corp. William Horn of the New Jersey state police, two Boston detectives and a department of justice agent where his safety deposit box was located,, but denied them authority to examine its contents. New York police today planned to seek authority from the Supreme court for permission to open the box in which, they believe may be found some of the $50,000 ransom money in the Lindbergh kidnaping case.

A raid on the Harrison-ave apartment of Gorch and his companion, Evelyn Klimascewska, revealed several letters written to Gorch and the woman at New York city addresses. Officials said the addresses were in the vicinity where some of the Lindbergh ransom money was passed in chain and drug stores.

Officials revealed that the "master mind" behind the Lindbergh kidnaping had a mathematical mind. The box in which the ransom money was ordered placed was just large enough to contain the money in specified denominations.

The raid on the apartment also revealed other clues, the raiders said. Clarence D. McKean, chief of the bureau of investigation, department of justice, said he was told by Agent Frank W. Allen that Gorch revealed names of certain New York residents with whom Gorch was acquainted. These "leads" will be followed, McKean said.

GRAF THRILLS COUNTY POPULACE
LANDS AT AKRON THIS MORNING

Forced to Hang in Air During Night; Wind Strong

LEAVES TONIGHT

Eckener Praises Action of Hydrogen

BY JACK VINCENT

AKRON, O., Oct. 24.—Running the gauntlet of every kind of weather during the past 30 hours, the German dirigible, Graf Zeppelin made a "happy landing" here today when its veteran skipper Dr. Hugo Eckener declared that he would rather fly a hydrogen-filled airship than the helium inflated craft that the United States now uses.

Encountering thunder storms, summer sunshine, rain, sleet, snow and heavy winds on its flight from Miami, Fla., to Akron as an anti-climax to its successful trans-oceanic voyage, the air rover was brought to the ground approximately 31½ hours after it had taken off from the Florida city.

MAROONED IN AIR

Far from displeased at the performance of his craft, Dr. Eckener smiled happily as he alighted at the airdock here after the ship had been safely "put to bed." The landing came after the craft had been "marooned" in the air for 10 hours by a fitful 40 mile-an-hour gale that roared out of the north bringing intermittent sleet, rain and a blizzard-like snow.

Dr. Eckener declared that he could have landed the Graf at any hour he wished last night despite the inclement weather. He explained, however, that a cross-wind was blowing against the hangar and that the ship would have been forced to ride out the night at a mooring mast on the field if he had elected to land when the ship was first sighted at 7:27 o'clock last night.

He said that he preferred to remain in the air in order to give his passengers a good night's rest. The ship finally was docked within the hangar at 6:05 a. m., today although it had made contact with the ground crew an hour earlier. At the time of the landing, the wind had abated to about 17 miles an hour but a sharp, brief snow beat against the silvery hulk of the airship.

LAUDS HYDROGEN

Dr. Eckener, on landing, submitted to an interview, the highlight of which was his statement that he preferred to fly a hydrogen filled Zeppelin. He declared that such a ship could be maneuvered more easily. He refused to elaborate on the declaration, waving away further questions as he left the airdock for a downtown hotel for several hours sleep.

The grizzled commander said that the delayed landing here would not interfere with the projected flight to the World Fair at Chicago. He said the ship would take off at 11 p. m., today arriving in Chicago tomorrow morning at nine o'clock. He said the craft would be landed for a half hour if the weather is favorable. It will return to Akron about dusk Thursday and then take off for Germany via Spain Saturday morning.

Wood Hears Graf Radio

Picks Up Zeppelin and Hears Reports On Location; Has 56½ Wave Length.

Have you ever heard DENNE on your radio?

Ralph Wood, deputy county engineer, has. He picked up the call on his short wave radio Tuesday evening and learned it was sent by the Graf Zeppelin on its flight from Columbus to Akron.

The wave length of the dirigible is such that an ordinary broadcast receiver will not pick up the ship. The wave length is low, Mr. Wood reported, being about 56 1-2 meters. The ship likely has other wave lengths, he believes. He picked up the ship on this one as it was going over Columbus, reporting its position in code only using I. C. W. of a croaky 800 cycle tone. The time was about 5:20 p. m., and the Graf was reporting to station WMEP which is unlisted in the call book used here.

The Graf has a good signal strength.

Amateurs should be particularly interested in this and it would allow them to follow the movements of the ship which is expected to leave Akron for Chicago about 11 p. m. Wednesday.

Dirigible Appears East of City at 4:30 Going North

CROWD WATCHES

Swastikas Draw Interest of Onlookers

One of the greatest thrills Pickaway countians have enjoyed in a long time was realized Tuesday afternoon when the Graf Zeppelin, flying at an altitude of approximately 2,800 feet, crossed the county in its flight from Miami, Fla., to Akron, enroute to the World's Fair at Chicago.

Word that the Graf would possibly cross this county was circulated when it was learned the giant craft passed Cincinnati about 3 p. m. Necks were craned and eyes turned skyward from that time until it was learned the big dirigible had passed Kingston and would possibly touch the east end of Circleville.

A parade of automobiles sped toward eastern limits of the city and their trips were rewarded by an excellent view of the Zeppelin hanging in the air, seeming to be making little speed against a strong head-wind, nevertheless traveling along at a fair rate.

The dirigible crossed directly over Stoutsville at 4.33 p. m. and made a line over Washington-twp and over Ashville, where it seemed to hang for a moment before cruising toward Columbus and its eventual goal, Akron.

The swastika of the Nazi government was printed in big letters on the fins of the big ship and the words GRAF ZEPPELIN in red capital letters were seen near the front. To the naked eye none was legible in the dirigible.

Many residents of the city followed the dirigible in automobiles to the Columbus city limits while many viewed it from points of vantage along the Island-rd, the Ringgold-pk, the Lancaster-pk and other spots.

It was a real thrill!

DOPE GIVES TIGERS EDGE ON DELAWARE

Comparative Scores Give Local Athletes Edge; Teams Meet Thursday.

Hopeful of turning back Ervin Carlisle's Delaware high school gridders for the first time since they entered the league, Circleville's Tigers invade the college town bailiwick, Thursday.

The Carlisle-men have been tough nuts on the Tiger schedule every season, but for the first time since relations were started, the Tigers are favored, if dope means anything.

Grandview defeated Delaware 12-0; the Tigers held Grandview to a 0-0 score; Westerville turned back Grandview, 3-0, and also defeated Delaware, 26-7.

According to the first two scores the Tigers are two touchdowns better than Delaware; according to the last two scores they are 22 points better. Who knows what will happen when the two teams meet?

HEINLEIN GONE

Coach Carlisle has lost Johnny Heinlein, spear-head of his attack for three years. Several other good boys are gone including Hagaman in the line but he also has several good athletes in his lineup. The Tigers will have to fight hard for everything they expect to gain in the college town. Despite the defeats taken by the Delawarieties at the hands of Grandview and Westerville, the team may have found itsself by this week.

Coach Herberholz will probably send the same team against the Delaware 11 as he did against Grandview. Willis Camp, big tackle, is expected to be on the sidelines, with an injury. The rest of the crew is in good condition, however.

Latest reports from Delaware indicate that Larry MacPhail, former Columbus Red Bird president and nationally-known official, will handle the referee's whistle but nothing official has been learned along this line.

The team will leave Circleville at noon Thursday in private automobiles.

Eli Squad Captain

CHANGES SEEN

COLUMBUS, Oct. 25.— Several possible changes in the Ohio State football team's lineup appeared in prospect today as Coach Sam Willaman continued the task of whipping his charges into shape for homecoming game here Saturday against Northwestern.

Most notable of the likely shifts of Buckeye players was the elevation of Stan Pincura to the varsity. Pincura, a sophomore signal-caller from Lorain, handled himself well in the Michigan game, which marked his debut in the "big time."

During scrimmage session yesterday, Pincura alternated with Carl Cramer at quarter.

TRANSYLVANIA FOE OF OHIO'S BOBCATS

Kentucky Team Invades Ohio Saturday; 16-0 Defeat Years Ago Stands.

ATHENS, Oct. 25.—Playing their fourth intersectional game of the season, the Ohio University Bobcats will face Transylvania College here Saturday at Ohio stadium.

Coach Don Peden's athletes came through the terrific battle with Miami with no serious casualties to the squad and will be able to pit full strength against the Kentuckians. The Ohio team has a defeat of 18 years standing to settle with the visitors. In 1915, Transylvania tripped the Bobcats, 16-0 at Lexington, and Ohio's ambitious gridders are saying that something must be done about it.

The contest Saturday marks the first time that a Kentucky team has invaded Athens. A closer battle than most fans are expecting will be in store for the Athenians, Ohio scouts, who have seen Transylvania in action, report to the Bobcat mentors. Coach Peden and his corps of coaches are not letting up in their drills for the encounter.

Saturday's game will be the last at home for the Pedenmen until the traditional battle with Ohio Wesleyan here, Nov. 25. Following the Transylvania game, Ohio will travel to Springfield, Huntington, W. Va., and Cincinnati to oppose Wittenberg, Marshall, and Cincinnati on successive Saturdays.

JACK BALES PRINCETON'S FIGHTINGEST

Local Youth With Injured Shoulder Given That Name By Crisler.

SQUAD IS PRAISED

Line Credited For 20-0 Upset of Columbia.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 25.—The tall, handsome football man from Minnesota, who Saturday presented Princeton with its first major football victory since the Yale game of 1928, was hesitant today about predicting anything unusual for his team this year.

"As for an undefeated season," parried Coach Fritz Crisler, we're spending most of our time right now worrying about Washington & Lee. We're taking our games strictly as they come."

When he spoke of last Saturday's decisive 20 to 0 victory over Columbia, however, Crisler evidenced a trace of pride in his men. The coach who has probably more high class sophomore backs than any other in the east, handed almost the entire credit for the win to his line.

"We beat Columbia up in the line," he said, "and from now on we're relying on Captain Lane, Ceppi, Fairman and John to carry us through.

BALES ONLY INJURY

"We've been exceptionally fortunate in getting into condition this fall, and at present there's only one man seriously injured. I'd better knock on wood, but —," and his face fell as Jack Bales, veteran senior back who Crisler has called the fightingest man on his squad, walked into the fieldhouse from the infirmary with his arm in a sling and two ligaments in his shoulder badly torn. "I guess I'll have to take that back," continued Crisler.

"We're not exactly pointing for Yale," he said. "They come at the end of the season and we've plenty of worries before then. If we stand still in our development, I don't see how we can win another game, but with continued improvement such as we've made in the past three weeks, the team has possibilities of equalling the average good team in the mid-west.

Three secret murder indictments were expected to be returned by the grand jury, which has been called to meet tomorrow morning, in connection with the investigation of the slaying of Sheriff Sarber.

JURY TO PROBE

Simultaneously, the Auglaize-co grand jury was called into session for tomorrow morning to conduct an investigation into the case of Fred Pierpont of Ottawa, a brother of Harry Pierpont, who is believed to be the leader of the gang of desperadoes responsible for the raid upon the jail here and the robbery of several Indiana and Ohio banks.

The investigation of the Auglie-co grand jury will center about the robbery of the First National Bank at St. Marys, it was understood.

Among the latest crimes laid to the convict gang was the holdup late yesterday of a large South Bend, Ind., bank. The gang also is believed responsible for the robbery of a bank the day before at Greencastle, Ind.

Aiding in the investigation of the criminal activities of the gang in Ohio was Brig. Gen. Harold M. Bush, who was sent to Wapakoneta by Governor George White to act as an "official observer."

HOW WOMEN CAN WIN MEN AND MEN WIN

The Favor of Other Men

Unless two pints of bile juice flow daily from your liver into your bowels, your food decays in your bowels. This poisons your whole body. Movements get hard and constipated. You get yellow tongue, yellow skin, pimples, dull eyes, bad breath, bad taste, gas, dizziness, headache. You have become an ugly-looking, foul-smelling, sour-thinking person. You have lost your personal charm. Everybody wants to run from you.

But don't take salts, mineral waters, oils, laxative pills, laxative candies or chewing gums and expect them to get rid of this poison that destroys your personal charm. They can't do it, for they only move out the tail end of your bowels and that doesn't take away enough of the decayed poison. Cosmetics won't help at all.

Only a free flow of your bile juice will stop this decay poison in your bowels. The one mild vegetable medicine which starts a free flow of your bile juice is Carter's Little Liver Pills. No calomel (mercury) in Carter's. Only fine, mild vegetable extracts. If you would bring back your personal charm to win men, start taking Carter's Little Liver Pills according to directions today. 25¢ at drug stores.

Refuse "something just as good" for it may gripe, loosen teeth or scald rectum. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for. ©1933, C.M.Co.

Progress Toward Farm Adjustment

THE CORN-HOG PLAN

The corn-hog adjustment program was formally launched Oct. 17, when Secretary Wallace announced a plan to provide benefit payments for corn and hog growers totalling $350,000,000. In return for the benefit payments, corn and hog growers are expected to contract to reduce in 1934 their acreage of corn by 20 per cent, and the number of hogs farrowed and sold by 25 per cent.

Benefit payments will take the form of acreage rental in the case of corn and flat payments a head in the case of hogs.

CORN PAYMENTS

Rate of payment is 30 cents a bushel for the average yield of corn produced on the farm. If a farmer has averaged over a base period (probably 1931 through 1932), a production of 40 bushels an acre, the payment he will receive will total $12 a acre for acres taken from production. Two-thirds of the payment will be made as soon as possible after contracts are signed, the remaining third after August 1, upon evidence of fulfillment of the contract.

By special arrangement an individual farmer may contract, and receive payments for it, to reduce acreage more than 20 per cent.

HOG PAYMENTS

Payment for hogs is $5 a head. The number of hogs on which this payment will be made is the equivalent to 75 per cent of the average number farrowed on the farm over a two-year base period. Payments are limited to those who agree also not to increase the average number of hogs bought and fed during the two-year base period.

Payments will be made as follows: $2 a head upon acceptance of the contract, $1 a head about September 1, 1934, and $2 a head about February 1, 1935.

PROCESSING TAXES

Money for the benefit payments will be derived from a processing tax on both corn and hogs. The rate of this tax will be determined by the Secretary of Agriculture. Initial processing tax on hogs will be 50 cents a hundredweight of live animal, and becomes effective November 5. This tax will be increased at intervals until it is $2 a hundredweight February 1, 1934.

A tax will be collected on corn processed commercial, commencing with the marketing year which begins in November.

CONCENTRATED IN 10 STATES

Between one and one-half and two million farmers in the United States produce corn and hogs on a commercial scale. The majority of these live in 10 middlewestern state, including Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota, Minnesota, and Wisconsin.

FARMERS HANDLE PROGRAM

Activities in the various states will be largely in the hands of county Corn-Hog Production Control Associations. These will choose their own officers and directors. Membership will be confined to farmers who sign adjustment agreements with the Triple A. County extension agents have been delegated to assist with the early stages of the program.

MAD DOG

IT'S scarcely fun being bitten by a dog with rabies. But at least the State of Ohio will pay all expenses for treatment. That's the law.

But the victim of tuberculosis doesn't fair so well. More than likely he'll be compelled, because of lack of financial aid, to mingle with his family, friends and fellow workers, spreading the deadly germs and exposing hundreds to suffering and death.

Tuberculosis can be cured—right here in Ohio—provided the patient can be given proper care and treatment. Why deny these unfortunates the right to recovery and a long, happy life? Why needlessly expose others in a community to this dreadful disease?

NOTHING should be permitted to stop the fight against tuberculosis. Every locality should make adequate provision for the care of needy tuberculous patients for the safety and protection of all. Write for free copy of "Blacking Out the White Plague."

TUBERCULOSIS PREVENTION Saves MORE THAN IT COSTS!

To The Citizens of Pickaway County . . .

Some apparently irresponsible persons have been attempting to circulate the report that I am ambitious to become the next superintendent of the Pickaway County schools. That report is wholly false. Such a report is, probably, being promoted by persons who have a selfish interest in it. If not selfish, then it must be prompted by either ignorance, or meanness. A coward would, of course, circulate such a report if he were afraid first to ask me if it were true.

I am NOT, in any sense, an applicant for the county superintendency when that position is open as it will soon be. My interest in the present County Board election is to join hands with a lot of good people in this county to abolish forever the pernicious influence of a group of trouble-makers and to break whatever strangle-hold the American Book Company still has upon the schools of the county. I have no further ambition than the one stated and with the help of good citizens everywhere, that is what we are going to do.

Yours very truly,

Advertise and Buy Now!

As Ohio steps on the accelerator in doing its part in the NRA program, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, administrator of the national recovery act, looks to the newspapers of every community in this state and in the nation to enlist merchants and buying public in his "Buy Now" campaign.

The administration recognizes newspapers as the most reliable medium with which to bring together consumer and dealer. Emphasizing their effectiveness, Gen. Johnson says:

"There has never been a time when the public was so alert for news as now. This tremendous public interest in news can be capitalized by American industry by placing the news about the value of a good product side by side with the other news of the world."

To the consumer he says that money can be saved now by acting to supply his needs for specific articles; that future price rises are not only inevitable, but for the good of all concerned; that the consumer should no longer fear to spend.

"Now is the time to buy," the national administration continues, "because hundreds of thousands of men are returning to work and the increased cost of every factor entering the production of every commodity must quickly be reflected in higher prices if the recovery is to be permanent."

To the merchant Gen. Johnson says:

"Give the public attractive, up-to-date merchandise fairly priced. Aggressively promote your products to the public. American industry must help the public to find the goods it needs. The modern method is advertising. The American public looks to advertising for news of good merchandise and good values. Nation wide reports indicate a live and unmistakable increase in selling effort and particularly in newspaper advertising. 1934 will reward aggressive and intelligent leadership. In our opinion the time is ripe for launching this effort."

This newspaper presents to business men the best means of reaching purchasers in this community. As the merchant offers his wares through its columns and those wares prove attractive to buyers more money will circulate and the community will benefit. Prosperity must begin at home.

America Keeps Out

THE United States, through its representative at Geneva, Norman H. Davis, has done well in letting the world know that this country is determined to keep itself free of any political entanglements in Europe. It is well that Europe especially should know this at this time.

The withdrawal of Germany from the League of Nations and the disarmament conference has caused an impression to take root in some European countries that the United States might align itself politically with the anti-German group. Such a course would, undoubtedly, be opposed by the American people. That the administration would consider it, hardly is to be regarded as possible.

Confirmation of this view was contained in Mr. Davis' statement in Geneva that "We again make it clear we in no way are politically aligned with an European power. Such unity of purpose as existed has been entirely on world disarmament matters." He asserted further that America was not "interested in the political element of any purely European aspect of the picture."

The United States has tried to further the cause of world peace, in which it is intensely interested, by seeking to cooperate with European and other nations in a disarmament program. Its efforts in this direction thus far have proved unsuccessful.

The political questions given rise to by Germany's actions are outside of this country's purpose in joining the disarmament conference. They relate to matters exclusively concerning Europe. It is for Europe to settle them without depending upon the United States for aid.

It is the duty of America to guard against permitting itself to be unwittingly drawn into the situation. This seems to be its aim.

"THAT'S MY BOY!"

by FRANCIS WALLACE
AUTHOR OF "HUDDLE"

SYNOPSIS

Thomas Jefferson Randolph . . . now a great football prospect at famous Thorndyke University . . . was born of humble parents, Mom and Pop, in a little Middle West factory town where he won early renown as a brilliant high school back so much so that the great eastern college had lured him to its swanky halls. Tommy came home for Christmas, spent much of the time trying to polish household manners, did not return Easter, but during his summer vacation he caused a most profound sensation throughout critical Athens by flashing on that burg the very latest in sport togs, white knickers, flannels, et al. The neighbors are rather caustic but, as Mom explains it, "if you fly with fine birds you must wear fine feathers" referring to her boy's "millionaire college chums" . . . However, Tommy's social and sartorial splendor causes another flare-up between those two veteran Democrats, Pop and Uncle Louie, the stalwart Thorndyke freshman constantly correcting the grammar, diction, etc., of his workaday elders. . . .

Tommy rested and golfed (with "Dot" Whitney) for two weeks as part of his between-season football training.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

Tommy talked much differently than he had before, even when he was home at Christmas. He didn't laugh so much and was more dignified; and he used better grammar except when he let something slip like that "attaboy." Mom could see he was trying to improve himself and so she didn't mind it so much when he corrected her grammar. Everybody should talk right, particularly when they had a son at Thorndyke.

"Don't pay no attention to that bagga wind," Pop said.

"Don't pay any attention, Father," Tommy corrected him.

"I said no attention."

"But any attention is correct."

"You knew what I meant, didn't you?"

"Yes, Father, but—"

"Then what the dang difference does it make what words I use?"

"It's just the way it sounds."

"Listen, Son, you're going to college and you talk the way you want; but I went to the school of hard knocks and I talk the way I learnt there. Now don't bother me no more."

But Mom felt sorry for Pop just the same; particularly after that when she caught him correcting himself when he was talking to outsiders. It was the same way with her; but when they had a son like Tommy they didn't want to disgrace him.

Still, Pop was funny. She caught him looking at some of Tommy's outfits and shaking his head. She knew he didn't quite see why Tommy had to wear them, just like everybody else; even Mom didn't, for that matter; but Pop had declared himself before Uncle Louie and he'd stick to it because you'd never catch Pop admitting he was wrong.

Then came the job.

Soon as Tommy came home Pop had started using his influence to get a job for him. It wasn't hard, because Mom knew Charlie Whitney had a soft spot in his heart for Tommy and almost everybody in town would have been proud to have him work for them, for that matter; but Pop made a big to-do about it and came home with the news he had a place for Tommy on the lears, which was where the glass was picked up after it had been tempered.

"But I don't want to work yet, Father," Tommy explained.

"You didn't go to college to learn how to be a loafer, did you?" Pop asked, indignantly.

Then Tommy explained. Mom couldn't understand it very well but the way Tommy told it she knew he was right.

He needed some rest, first. Pop laughed at that—he couldn't see that at all, how anybody needed rest when they had been doing nothing but wasting time at college. Then Tommy had to improve his golf game, he said. Pop was fit to be tied and started a sermon about he wasn't keeping a house for nutty guys who played cow-pasture pool, which was what the men at the factory called it; although Mom knew none of them had ever seen the golf.

But Tommy was patient and explained the whole thing.

"In the kind of work I'll be doing, Father," he said, "golf is important. Big business men get together in a golf game and talk over deals as they go around the course; so it just isn't for the fun of it. If a fellow can't play a good game of golf he's handicapped.

"But I don't want to play golf all summer. I've got it all mapped out. I'll rest and golf for two weeks, then I'll work for six weeks, and the tougher the job the better because I want to be hard as nails when I quit and go back to school in shape. Then I'll rest another week before I go back. I went over the whole program with Coach Taylor before I left."

Pop was satisfied if Tommy was willing to work some and Mom was glad because the boy seemed to be enjoying himself so much at the golf — and because almost every day he went with Dorothy Whitney in her car to the Smithville Country Club where her father was a member and where some of Tommy's school friends played.

Then, true to his promise, he went to work in the factory at a harder job than on the lears; he was a trucker and carried boxes of ware to the packer's benches and then took the barrels away and put them in stock. This work was almost all lifting and everybody said Tommy was a real good worker. On account of being so tall they said he could lift higher than his head and could pile the boxes up higher than anybody else; and they said there was nobody could break down a stack of barrels like Tommy. Everybody seemed real surprised at the way he worked and Mom knew Pop was very proud of the way he showed the knockers that he could do hard work if he really wanted to.

Tommy worked the day turn which gave him his evenings off. It did Mom's heart good to see the way he put away a good meal and she could almost see him growing and getting bigger and stronger, particularly around the shoulders. Charlie Whitney stopped to talk to Pop once and told him Tommy would give the "Big Three" lines plenty of trouble; and when Pop told Mom she knew Tommy would although she didn't want him to get into trouble with anybody; but Charlie Whitney seemed to think it was something to be proud of, so Mom was proud too.

In the evenings after supper—Mom could never remember to call it dinner, it seemed—Tommy would go down town and talk football or go to the movies with Dorothy or take a ride in her car. They were keeping steady company but the best Mom could ever get out of Tommy about it was that Dot was a good scout.

Tommy never gave any of his money at home but this was all right because he was buying himself more clothes and saving up for spending money. He got himself a lot of fancy-striped underwear which the neighbor ladies used to look at and shake their heads. All of the neighbors always watched the washings that were hung out and Mom's was always spotless as she took a pride in hanging out lovely washings; but she noticed that even Joie Farrell still wore the plain white beeveedees which went to show that he was just the same bump on a log and wasn't learning much at college.

Sure enough, Joie was working the vacation at the mill over the river and doing just what Pop said the chemists did over there, which was test iron every so often and then sleep between tests; which proved that Pop knew what he had been talking about all right. Nobody paid much attention to Joie who went moping along and didn't seem to bother anybody, which was more than could be said for his mother. Joie and Tommy said hello whenever they met and seemed to be real friendly and once Mom heard them talking about the football although she didn't know what a shrimp like Joie would know about the football as he hardly knew he was alive.

MOVIES

AT THE GRAND

The Great Marquis, World's Master Magician, and his company have arrived in Circleville for a two night engagement at the Grand Theatre commencing tonight. Marquis brings the largest production of mystic thrills since Blackstone's appearance here several years ago.

This afternoon he entertained the student body of the Circleville High School and at 4 p. m. the noted mystifier drove an automobile through the business section while blindfolded with cotton, adhesive tape and several thicknesses of canvas.

Marquis will present his well known expose of spiritualism exactly as it has been produced in New York at a midnight performance. Marquis' spirit show, which he chooses to call "An hour in a Spookeasy" will be presented as a special midnight feature Friday night.

AT THE GRAND

One of the strangest stories of a triangular love affair is told in the Warner Bros. picture "Mary Stevens M. D.," which comes to the Grand Theater on Wednesday. The triangle involves Kay Francis, the star, Lyle Talbot and Thelma Todd.

A boy and a girl, playmates from childhood, study medical surgery together, pass their apprenticeship as internes in the same hospital and set up practice in adjoining offices, their friendship ripening into love.

The ambition of the man, however, sees an opportunity in a marriage with the daughter of a powerful politician. So the childhood sweetheart steps aside, although she continues to watch over the man she loves with a mothering instinct.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Characters that might have stepped out of your family album hold the center of the stage in "Another Language," which shows tonight at the Cliftona Theatre with Helen Hayes and Robert Montgomery co-starring.

The picture, filmed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer from the Rose Franken stage hit that ran for more than a year on Broadway, is a study in middle-class family life. It deals frankly with the eternal problem of marriage and relatives. In this case it is the Hallams, the stodgy family of the husband, that makes all the trouble.

In the role of the young wife who is more interested in art than washing dishes, Miss Hayes achieves the most touching and human performance of her screen career, in the opinion of this reviewer. Her shading of the character is superb and she handles the difficult situations as convincingly as though they were her very own.

Painful Wry-Neck Is Sudden in Its Attack

It Disappears Quickly, Too, Unless It Is Congenital or Due to Neglect in Childhood

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

IT IS NOT unusual for somebody to awaken in the morning with a severe pain in the neck. On going to bed there was no pain, but in the morning it is almost impossible to turn the head. The victim holds his head tilted toward the painful side with the chin pointing upward. This is what happens in that uncomfortable condition known as "wry-neck".

Dr. Copeland

Wry-neck, or "torticollis", as it is called by the medical profession, is an inflammation of the muscles of the neck. It may involve both sides of the neck, but as a rule only one side is affected. The inflammation can usually be traced to an exposure to cold or wet.

Attacks Overnight

Perhaps the sufferer falls asleep in a draught or without sufficient bedclothes. He is awakened during the night with a sharp shooting pain in the neck. This is relieved when the head is held in the position I have described. At times the unsuspecting victim may sleep on until morning, when he finds himself stricken. This painful affliction is more alarming than serious. Of course, the suddenness of the attack is more or less bewildering. Fortunately the symptoms soon disappear.

There is a type of torticollis that does not disappear with simple treatment, but requires an operation for complete cure. I refer to that form of wry-neck which can be traced to neglect of inflammation in early childhood. It may be the result of a difficult birth with injury to the muscles of the infant's neck.

Operation in Severe Cases

If this condition is neglected, the muscles become weak and permanent deformity results. This deformity causes an alteration in the normal position of the spine. Twisting of the head may lead to faulty development of the muscles of the face, with change in the facial expression. It may even affect the speech.

May I assure the worried mother that the operation is not a difficult one and need cause no alarm. By a simple procedure the shortened muscle is cut. This allows the head to return to the proper position instead of being pulled to one side.

After the tendon is severed, a plaster of paris bandage is placed around the neck, head and under both arms. This cast keeps the head in normal position, corrects the deformity and allows the cut muscle to heal.

This may sound like a formidable procedure but in reality it is simple. The results are extremely successful and that is the best part of it.

After healing takes place the muscles are massaged. The young victim is instructed in special exercises of the head. These improve the tone and strength of the diseased muscles. Within a short time it is difficult to recognize that the child ever suffered from wry-neck.

Answers to Health Queries

Mrs. J. F. Q.—What would be apt to cause shortness of breath, after eating, in a child of 11 years of age? My little girl complains of this and today I noticed that she was troubled about two hours after eating.

A.—This may be due to several causes. Have the child examined. In the meantime make sure that she is not overeating or overdoing in any way.

L. C. Q.—I have been having a great deal of trouble with my gums. There is pain whenever I take anything hot or very cold, even cold air into my mouth. The trouble seems to be at the gum line. The pain seems to go through my face. What would you advise?

A.—Have a thorough examination, including X-ray, if necessary, to locate the underlying source of infection. Your dentist will advise you more definitely.

John J. Pershing, of the Tenth Cavalry, then commander of university cadets.

Now Pershing has an office down the corridor from Dern. Gold letters over the door read: "General of the Armies."

Dern registered at the University of Nebraska in 1894. His name is in the college register, is marked with an asterisk, meaning that he was "somewhat irregular." He suffered from a handicap in entrance requirements due to the fact that he had completed only three out of the required 30 2-3 hours of preparatory work.

Under Pershing, Dern was a member of the Cadet Band, where he is listed as "private and second alto." Apparently he never graduated.

Soviet Merry-Go-Round

Russia owns one of the finest embassies in Washington . . . It has been occupied only by a caretaker for sixteen years, soon will be occupied again . . . The most significant fact about the Roosevelt-Russian note exchange is the way Soviet attitude toward Japan recently stiffened . . . No one knew why at the time, but the answer is in Moscow's receipt of Roosevelt's message . . . . President Kalinin referred to this indirectly when he told Roosevelt that failure of the United States and Russia to have normal relations had an "unfavorable effect upon the general international situation." . . . Maxim Litvinoff, who will come to Washington, is the man who spanked ex-Secretary of State Stimson when the latter lectured Russia about sending troops into Manchuria . . . It was one of the worst diplomatic spankings in recent history . . . Two days before Roosevelt announced his Russian move, Steve Early, White House Secretary, issued an emphatic denial that Russian recognition was under consideration . . . Newspapermen wrote the story anyway . . . Roosevelt's Russian invitation was sent over the head of Billy Phillips his under secretary of state. Phillips, a career man of the school, dislikes anything pertaining to the Soviet.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

WHEN Mr. and Mrs. Robinson took their Bobette to dinner at the Skinks' house, it turned out that Mr. Skinks had been to a party the night before, and he sat down to the dinner table at his own house that day with a right black eye.

So Bobette was looking and staring at the black eye, and Mrs. Robinson, across the table, gave her a terrible look and shook her head a little.

Bobette spoke right up. "Well, Mom," she says, "I ain't going to say a word about it. Honest, I wasn't going to ask him how it happened. But ain't I got a right to look at it a little bit?"

NEWSPAPERS OBTAIN BULK OF VICK ADS

GREENSBORO, N. C., Oct. 25.— In accordance with its policy for nearly 50 years, the Vick Chemical Company announced today that newspapers will receive most of the heavy advertising this season for Vicks VapoRub, Vicks Nose & Throat Drops, Vick Medicated Cough Drops and Vicks Voratone Antiseptic.

Vicks advertising and expansion program for this season is one of the largest in the company's history - a continuation of past policies.

During the past four years Vicks has increased its advertising 150 per cent. It has increased the number of its employes 72 per cent and maintained salaries at the high 1929 levels. Throughout this period other companies were curtailing their advertising or eliminating it entirely, discharging millions of employes and slashing salaries.

Vicks has continued the aggressive merchandising that has always characterized its sales policies. In these four years - probably the most disastrous economically that America has ever known - Sales of Vick products have increased from 26,000,000 packages in 1929 to more than 52,000,000 packages this year.

NEW YORK SOCIETY WOMAN SUES FOR MILLION AND HALF

Mrs. Doubleday Names Harold McCormick In Breach Of Promise Act.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—Attorneys for Mrs. Rhoda Tanner Doubleday, New York society woman, today announced they would press for an early hearing in the $1,500,000 suit started by Mrs. Doubleday against Harold F. McCormick, millionaire harvester magnate.

With the filing of the praecipe of the suit in circuit court here Attorney William B. Gemmil, Jr., stated that Mrs. Doubleday's action is for breach of promise to marry after an asserted, friendship that extended over a year.

Attorney Henry A. Uterhart of New York, the plaintiff's chief counsel, asserted that Mrs. Doubleday is in "deadly earnest" and expects to push for an early hearing of her charges.

"I am awfully sorry. I have nothing to say," the Chicago society man stated when informed of the suit.

WILL FIGHT CASE

Friends of McCormick, however, said he will fight the case to the limit.

Mrs. Doubleday, who is in her thirties, is prominent in New York society. She is the divorced wife of Felix Doubleday, New York book publisher.

McCormick, now 61 years old, was divorced in 1921 by the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick. In 1922 he married Ganna Walska, Polish opera singer, in Paris. He won an uncontested divorce degree from the singer here in 1931, charging desertion.

Sixty-eight letters received by Mrs. Doubleday over a period of a year in New York and at Santa Barbara, Cal., where she visited with her mother, form the bais of the heart balm suit, Attorney A. M. Schaffer, an associate of Uterhart, asserted.

FORD

The discriminating public knows how automobiles are made in Wayne County Detroit. Many of the buyers are mechanics, and they go farther than just looks. Ford is first in registrations, 2,555; next car, 1325; next car, 917. The Ford V-8 has outstanding quality built into every feature. QUALITY? Why, it is everywhere you look. Features only found in the highest priced cars. No car has finer materials, workmanship, or design. The Ford V-8 is two years in advance of other low priced cars. There is a reason why the Ford will give a sustained speed of 80 miles—which is much faster than cars of our opposition.

Federal Reserve Has $800,000,000 Waiting For Banks to Borrow

WASHINGTON—The Federal Reserve has quietly begun to line up behind President Roosevelt's credit expansion program.

It is tapering off its weekly purchases of government securities—last week to the extent of $4,000,000. The New York bank also pared its rediscount rate from 2½ to 2 per cent.

All this is being done to encourage member banks to borrow so they can extend credit. The Federal Reserve's excess reserves for this purpose are now at the record breaking figure of $800,000,000.

Soviet Skvirsky

The man who had most to do with Roosevelt's step to recognize Russia was Boris E. Skvirsky, unofficial Soviet ambassador in Washington.

Twelve years ago this month, Skvirsky was a Communist official in Chita, a town on the Trans-Siberian Railway. Suddenly he got telegraphic orders from Moscow to come to the United States as representative of the Far Eastern Republic.

The Republic was a Soviet subsidiary set up to get the recognition of the United States at the Washington Arms Conference. In this Skvirsky failed. He came to Washington, but got no recognition from the State Department.

He has been here ever since. During that time he has had no official recognition from anyone.

But unofficially the State Department consults him frequently. When they want something done in Russia they see Skvirsky. When Lindbergh wanted to land in Siberia, he saw Skvirsky. When former Secretary of the Interior Wilbur wanted to rescue some marooned Americans in the Bering Sea, he saw Skvirsky.

There has been at times agitation against Skvirsky. But he could not be deported. He came here before immigration restrictions. He is a Communist, but has engaged in no propaganda.

Recently Skvirsky performed the crowning work of his career. He relayed to Moscow Roosevelt's telegram inviting Litvinoff to Washington. Roosevelt had no other way of sending the message.

Having achieved this, Skvirsky has asked to go back to Moscow. He does not want to remain here as Ambassador.

No Loosening Up

There will be no loosening of the taut bars of the Securities Act.

Despite terrific behind-the scenes pressure from banking and big business quarters, the President not only will keep the Act intact, but is determined to enforce it to the hilt. That is the reason behind his recent appointment of Professor James M. Landis, of Harvard's law school, to the Federal Trade Commission, which has jurisdiction over the measure.

Thirty-four years old, Felix Frankurter "boy," and one of the most enlightened minds in the legal profession, Landis helped write the act, can be depended upon to see that it gets 100 per cent execution.

"RESIGN? NO!" SAYS IMMELL; TRUAX TO ACT

Yellowbud Man in Louisville as Investigation Opens Thursday

10 APPROVE LETTER

Bucyrus Man Says He's Acting With F.D.R. Okeh

A statement that he will not resign and that the dispute between himself and Congressman Mell G. Underwood is a personal matter was made to reporters in Louisville, Ky. today by Robert L. Immell, Yellowbud, vice president of the Federal Land bank at Louisville.

"I heartily endorse an investigation covering my work in connection with the Farm Credit administration. I shall continue to fight to the last ditch in the interest of farmers who desire loans," he declared.

Immell's statement came on the eve of an investigation by the office of Henry Morganthau, Jr., governor of the Farm Credit organization. T. L. Gaddis, chief appraiser in Morganthau's office, will conduct the investigation after Congressman Mell G. Underwood, C. V. Traux and Charles West brought charges that Immell is not in accord with the aims of the government.

TRUAX TALKS

Truax, a Bucyrus man, was in Columbus Thursday and said he was ready to present the results of an investigation conducted by himself to Mr. Gaddis in Louisville. "I shall file charges of malfeasance, misfeasance, and incompetency against officials and appraisers in charge of Farm Loan work in Ohio," Mr. Truax said. He announced that his investigation had the support of the President.

Five charges were listed by Truax. They were:

1. Malfeasance, misfeasance and incompetency against all officials and appraisers.
2. Conspiracy to disrupt the Farm Loan act.
3. That the officials are Hoover Republicans plus pseudo-Democrats who are completely out of sympathy with the administration, its acts and aims.
4. That land values are seen through eyes of Hoover Depression instead of Roosevelt New Deal and are on confiscatory values.
5. That all these misfits shall be fired.

DEMOCRATS SIGN

Another angle entered the controversy today when it was learned a letter bearing names of 10 members of the Pickaway-co Democratic executive committee declaring their support to Mr. Immell, was to be sent to Louisville Wednesday or Thursday.

Of 13 members of the committee interviewed by a local Democrat, not a member of the committee, 10 signed a statement giving their support to Mr. Immell. Only three refused, it is reported.

The committee several weeks ago voted to ask Immell's resignation after Underwood blamed the Yellowbud man for failure of the Farm Credit administration.

HOSKINS WATCHES LOBBY ACTIVITIES

Special Senate Committee Gathers Again Today In State Capitol.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 25.—Watched by the prosecutor of Franklin-co, who is conducting a "private inquiry" into legislative lobby activities, the special Senate committee investigating the cost of textbooks in Ohio schools and related subjects gathered in Columbus today to resume its probe.

Revelation of the activity of the county prosecutor's office with regard to lobbying at the recent session of the state legislature was made late yesterday as the stage was set for the resumption today of the Senate committee's investigation.

The Senate committee has been prying into alleged "high pressure methods" used by representatives of school textbook companies in an effort to place their products in Ohio schools.

Working separately, County Prosecutor Donald J. Hoskins has been privately investigating lobby activities for some time, it was learned. Among those who have been questioned was the manager of one of the leading hotels in Columbus where lobbyists have established headquarters.

AT FARM CONFERENCE

Guy Dowdy, emergency Wheat administrator for this county, was in Columbus Wednesday and will remain Thursday attending an extension conference at Ohio State university.

Men's Clubs Hear Judge Whitcraft

150 Attend Excellent Meeting At Methodist Church Tuesday Evening.

One hundred and fifty men, members of the Presbyterian and Methodist men's clubs with a few guests, enjoyed another fine inter-club meeting Tuesday evening. The Methodist men were hosts to the Presbyterian club in the former church, supper being served at 6:45 p. m. by ladies of the church.

The feature of the evening was an address by Judge Harley Whitcraft, of the Hocking-co common pleas court. Judge Whitcraft, an able barrister and equally as able as a speaker, used as the basis of his interesting address the laws of the nation and the need of their enforcement. The assistance of the church in building leaders to direct the nation's course was stressed by Judge Whitcraft.

"The same basic laws which prevailed in Moses' day are the ones with which we have our most trouble," the speaker said. "We

U.S. BOOSTS GOLD VALUE

Offers $31.36 Per Ounce As Purchase Begins; Is Above World Price.

WASHINGTON, Oct 25.—Embarking upon President Roosevelt's dollar control plan, the government through the RFC today announced the new purchase price of gold at $31.36 per ounce.

The price was agreed upon at a treasury conference attended by Jesse Jones, chairman of the RFC, Acting Secretary of the Treasury Dean Acheson, and Henry F. Morgenthau, Jr., head of the farm credit administration.

The new price was $1.56 above yesterday's price of $29.80, and $10.69 cents above the Saturday price as fixed in 1834. Federal reserve gold is still carried on the treasury books at $20.67.

The RFC will accept subscriptions for its Monday debentures today payable in newly mined gold from natural deposits in the United States and its territories.

This indicated the government would buy all the gold offered.

The new price was above the $30.99 offered in London this morning which is generally accepted as the world price.

INITIATION FATAL TO SCHOOL YOUTH

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 25.—A fraternity initiation turned into a tragedy here today, when Edward Briggs, 15 year old high school boy, was crushed beneath a tombstone in an abandoned cemetery while he was attempting to climb the monument.

Edward was led blindfolded into the cemetery in one of those hocuspocus ceremonies boys deem necessary for testing new members of their secret societies.

Police Seek Supreme Court Order to Search Gorch's Property

LETTER IS CHECKED

'Break' Hoped for in Lindbergh Mystery

BOSTON, Oct.25.—While police sought the writer of the "Judas letter" which betrayed John Gorch, 37, alleged confidence man and newest Lindbergh case suspect, into their hands, investigators representing four law enforcement agencies today sought to establish any possible connection between him and the $50,000 ransom money.

The anonymous letter, written either by a man or woman, was so accurate regarding Gorch's alleged criminal record, that officials felt the writer might be correct in linking Gorch with the Lindbergh case. Gorch previously had been questioned but was exonerated.

GO TO COURT

Gorch told Lieut. James Finn of the New York police, Corp. William Horn of the New Jersey state police, two Boston detectives and a department of justice agent where his safety deposit box was located,, but denied them authority to examine its contents. New York police today planned to seek authority from the Supreme court for permission to open the box in which, they believe may be found some of the $50,000 ransom money in the Lindbergh kidnaping case.

A raid on the Harrison-ave apartment of Gorch and his companion, Evelyn Klimascewska, revealed several letters written to Gorch and the woman at New York city addresses. Officials said the addresses were in the vicinity where some of the Lindbergh ransom money was passed in chain and drug stores.

Officials revealed that the "master mind" behind the Lindbergh kidnaping had a mathematical mind. The box in which the ransom money was ordered placed was just large enough to contain the money in specified denominations.

The raid on the apartment also revealed other clues, the raiders said. Clarence D. McKean, chief of the bureau of investigation, department of justice, said he was told by Agent Frank W. Allen that Gorch revealed names of certain New York residents with whom Gorch was acquainted. These "leads" will be followed, McKean said.

Plans for the annual Roll Call of the Red Cross were outlined Tuesday evening when members of the local chapter met in the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

Frank A. Lynch, chapter chairman, presided.

E. S. Neuding has been renamed Roll Call chairman and will be assisted by D. L. Buchanan, who serves as county leader.

The drive for memberships will open Armistice Day, November 11, and will be concluded on Thanksgiving Day, November 30.

A tentative list of assistants in various precincts and townships of city and county was drawn up at the meeting but will not be announced until the list is definitely completed.

One of the angles of publicity, which will mean a lot to the success of the Roll Call, is the request to all members of the clergy to announce the opening of the Roll Call in their churches on Sunday, November 12.

The Roll Call this year will be of great importance to the city and county. Figures on just what the Red Cross does annually in Circleville and Pickaway-co will be available within a few days.

GRAF THRILLS COUNTY POPULACE LANDS AT AKRON THIS MORNING

Forced to Hang in Air During Night; Wind Strong

LEAVES TONIGHT

Eckener Praises Action of Hydrogen

BY JACK VINCENT

AKRON, O., Oct. 24.—Running the gauntlet of every kind of weather during the past 30 hours, the German dirigible, Graf Zeppelin made a "happy landing" here today when its veteran skipper Dr. Hugo Eckener declared that he would rather fly a hydrogen-filled airship than the helium inflated craft that the United States now uses.

Encountering thunder storms, summer sunshine, rain, sleet, snow and heavy winds on its flight from Miami, Fla., to Akron as an anti-climax to its successful transoceanic voyage, the air rover was brought to the ground approximately 31½ hours after it had taken off from the Florida city.

MAROONED IN AIR

Far from displeased at the performance of his craft, Dr. Eckener smiled happily as he alighted at the airdock here after the ship had been safely "put to bed." The landing came after the craft had been "marooned" in the air for 10 hours by a fitful 40 mile-an-hour gale that roared out of the north bringing intermittent sleet, rain and a blizzard-like snow.

Dr. Eckener declared that he could have landed the Graf at any hour he wished last night despite the inclement weather. He explained, however, that a cross-wind was blowing against the hangar and that the ship would have been forced to ride out the night at a mooring mast on the field if he had elected to land when the ship was first sighted at 7:27 o'clock last night.

He said that he preferred to remain in the air in order to give his passengers a good night's rest. The ship finally was docked within the hangar at 6:05 a. m., today although it had made contact with the ground crew an hour earlier. At the time of the landing, the wind had abated to about 17 miles an hour but a sharp, brief snow beat against the silvery hulk of the airship.

LAUDS HYDROGEN

Dr. Eckener, on landing, submitted to an interview, the highlight of which was his statement that he preferred to fly a hydrogen filled Zeppelin. He declared that such a ship could be maneuvered more easily. He refused to elaborate on the declaration, waving away further questions as he left the airdock for a downtown hotel for several hours sleep.

The grizzled commander said that the delayed landing here would not interfere with the projected flight to the World Fair at Chicago. He said the ship would take off at 11 p. m., today arriving in Chicago tomorrow morning at nine o'clock. He said the craft would be landed for a half hour if the weather is favorable. It will return to Akron about dusk Thursday and then take off for Germany via Spain Saturday morning.

Wood Hears Graf Radio

Picks Up Zeppelin and Hears Reports On Location; Has 56½ Wave Length.

Have you ever heard DENNE on your radio?

Ralph Wood, deputy county engineer, has. He picked up the call on his short wave radio Tuesday evening and learned it was sent by the Graf Zeppelin on its flight from Columbus to Akron.

The wave length of the dirigible is such that an ordinary broadcast receiver will not pick up the ship. The wave length is low, Mr. Wood reported, being about 56 1-2 meters. The ship likely has other wave lengths, he believes. He picked up the ship on this one as it was going over Columbus, reporting its position in code only using I. C. W. of a croaky 800 cycle tone. The time was about 5:20 p. m., and the Graf was reporting to station WMEP which is unlisted in the call book used here.

The Graf has a good signal strength.

Amateurs should be particularly interested in this and it would allow them to follow the movements of the ship which is expected to leave Akron for Chicago about 11 p. m. Wednesday.

Dirigible Appears East of City at 4:30 Going North

CROWD WATCHES

Swastikas Draw Interest of Onlookers

One of the greatest thrills Pickaway countians have enjoyed in a long time was realized Tuesday afternoon when the Graf Zeppelin, flying at an altitude of approximately 2,800 feet, crossed the county in its flight from Miami, Fla., to Akron, enroute to the World's Fair at Chicago.

Word that the Graf would possibly cross this county was circulated when it was learned the giant craft passed Cincinnati about 3 p. m. Necks were craned and eyes turned skyward from that time until it was learned the big dirigible had passed Kingston and would possibly touch the east end of Circleville.

A parade of automobiles sped toward eastern limits of the city and their trips were rewarded by an excellent view of the Zeppelin hanging in the air, seeming to be making little speed against a strong head-wind, nevertheless traveling along at a fair rate.

The dirigible crossed directly over Stoutsville at 4:25 p. m. and made a line over Washington and over Ashville, where it seemed to hang for a moment, before cruising toward Columbus and the eventual goal, Akron.

The swastika of the [illegible] ernment was printed in [illegible] on the fins of the big ship, the words GRAF ZEPPELIN [illegible] capital letters were [illegible] front. To the naked eye [illegible] legible in the dirigible.

Many residents of the city followed the dirigible in automobiles to the Columbus city limits while many viewed it from points of vantage along the Island-rd, the Ringgold-pk, the Lancaster-pk and other spots.

It was a real thrill!

C. H. Simmons, 40, of Piqua, who was with Bridgeman and Meredith was rescued.

Hundreds of small boats put out to aid in the search for the bodies of Bridgeman and Meredith following the accident. The bodies were not immediately recovered, however.

Simmons was rescued from drowning by Dr. W. E. Schiedt of Celina and Sheriff Edward Bernard of Mercer-co, who were duck hunting in the reservoir also. Bridgeman and Meredith were tossed overboard as their boat capsized, but Simmons managed to cling to the craft. He was near collapse by the time Dr. Schiedt and Sheriff Bernard reached him.

CHANGES SEEN

COLUMBUS, Oct. 25.— Several possible changes in the Ohio State football team's lineup appeared in prospect today as Coach Sam Willaman continued the task of whipping his charges into shape for homecoming game here Saturday against Northwestern.

Most notable of the likely shifts of Buckeye players was the elevation of Stan Pincura to the varsity. Pincura, a sophomore signal-caller from Lorain, handled himself well in the Michigan game, which marked his debut in the "big time."

During scrimmage session yesterday, Pincura alternated with Carl Cramer at quarter.

TRANSYLVANIA FOE OF OHIO'S BOBCATS

Kentucky Team Invades Ohio Saturday; 16-0 Defeat Years Ago Stands.

ATHENS, Oct. 25.—Playing their fourth intersectional game of the season, the Ohio University Bobcats will face Transylvania College here Saturday at Ohio stadium.

Coach Don Peden's athletes came through the terrific battle with Miami with no serious casualties to the squad and will be able to pit full strength against the Kentuckians. The Ohio team has a defeat of 18 years standing to settle with the visitors. In 1915 Transylvania tripped the Bobcats, 16-0 at Lexington, and Ohio's ambitious gridders are saying that something must be done about it.

The contest Saturday marks the first time that a Kentucky team has invaded Athens. A closer battle than most fans are expecting will be in store for the Athenians, Ohio scouts, who have seen Transylvania in action, report to the Bobcat mentors. Coach Peden and his corps of coaches are not letting up in their drills for the encounter.

Saturday's game will be the last at home for the Pedenmen until the traditional battle with Ohio Wesleyan here, Nov. 25. Following the Transylvania game, Ohio will travel to Springfield, Huntington, W. Va., and Cincinnati to oppose Wittenberg, Marshall, and Cincinnati on successive Saturdays.

JACK BALES PRINCETON'S FIGHTINGEST

Local Youth With Injured Shoulder Given That Name By Crisler.

SQUAD IS PRAISED

Line Credited For 20-0 Upset of Columbia.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 25.— The tall, handsome football man from Minnesota, who Saturday presented Princeton with its first major football victory since the Yale game of 1928, was hesitant today about predicting anything unusual for his team this year.

"As for an undefeated season," parried Coach Fritz Crisler, we're spending most of our time right now worrying about Washington & Lee. We're taking our games strictly as they come."

When he spoke of last Saturday's decisive 20 to 0 victory over Columbia, however. Crisler evidenced a trace of pride in his men. The coach who has probably more high class sophomore backs than any other in the east, handed almost the entire credit for the win to his line.

"We beat Columbia up in the line," he said, "and from now on we're relying on Captain Lane, Ceppi, Fairman and John to carry us through.

BALES ONLY INJURY

"We've been exceptionally fortunate in getting into condition this fall, and at present there's only one man seriously injured. I'd better knock on wood, but —," and his face fell as Jack Bales, veteran senior back who Crisler has called the fightingest man on his squad, walked into the fieldhouse from the infirmary with his arm in a sling and two ligaments in his shoulder badly torn. "I guess I'll have to take that back," continued Crisler.

"We're not exactly pointing for Yale," he said. "They come at the end of the season and we've plenty of worries before then. If we stand still in our development, I don't see how we can win another game, but with continued improvement such as we've made in the past three weeks, the team has possibilities of equalling the average good team in the mid-west.

Another Speedy Don

Emulating her famous brother, Rita Don, sister of Kaye Don, British driver of racing boats and autos, is pictured as she made her debut as a race driver in the women's handicap over the automobile track at Brooklands, England, recently. She hopes to run her brother a close second as a speedster.

The investigation of the Auglie-co grand jury will center about the robbery of the First National Bank at St. Marys, it was understood.

Among the latest crimes laid to the convict gang was the holdup late yesterday of a large South Bend, Ind., bank. The gang also is believed responsible for the robbery of a bank the day before at Greencastle, Ind.

Aiding in the investigation of the criminal activities of the gang in Ohio was Brig. Gen. Harold M. Bush, who was sent to Wapakoneta by Governor George White to act as an "official observer."

HOW WOMEN CAN WIN MEN AND MEN WIN

The Favor of Other Men

Unless two pints of bile juice flow daily from your liver into your bowels, your food decays in your bowels. This poisons your whole body. Movements get hard and constipated. You get yellow tongue, yellow skin, pimples, dull eyes, bad breath, bad taste, gas, dizziness, headache. You have become an ugly-looking, foul-smelling, sour-thinking person. You have lost your personal charm. Everybody wants to run from you.

But don't take salts, mineral waters, oils, laxative pills, laxative candies or chewing gums and expect them to get rid of this poison that destroys your personal charm. They can't do it, for they only move out the tail end of your bowels and that doesn't take away enough of the decayed poison. Cosmetics won't help at all.

Only a free flow of your bile juice will stop this decay poison in your bowels. The one mild vegetable medicine which starts a free flow of your bile juice is Carter's Little Liver Pills. No calomel (mercury) in Carter's. Only fine, mild vegetable extracts. If you would bring back your personal charm to win men, start taking Carter's Little Liver Pills according to directions today. 25c at drug stores.

Progress Toward Farm Adjustment

THE CORN-HOG PLAN

The corn-hog adjustment program was formally launched Oct. 17, when Secretary Wallace announced a plan to provide benefit payments for corn and hog growers totalling $350,000,000. In return for the benefit payments, corn and hog growers are expected to contract to reduce in 1934 their acreage of corn by 20 per cent, and the number of hogs farrowed and sold by 25 per cent.

Benefit payments will take the form of acreage rental in the case of corn and flat payments a head in the case of hogs.

CORN PAYMENTS

Rate of payment is 30 cents a bushel for the average yield of corn produced on the farm. If a farmer has averaged over a base period (probably 1931 through 1932), a production of 40 bushels an acre, the payment he will receive will total $12 a acre for acres taken from production. Two-thirds of the payment will be made as soon as possible after contracts are signed, the remaining third after August 1, upon evidence of fulfillment of the contract.

By special arrangement an individual farmer may contract, and receive payments for it, to reduce acreage more than 20 per cent.

HOG PAYMENTS

Payment for hogs is $5 a head. The number of hogs on which this payment will be made is the equivalent to 75 per cent of the average number farrowed on the farm over a two-year base period. Payments are limited to those who agree also not to increase the average number of hogs bought and fed during the two-year base period.

Payments will be made as follows: $2 a head upon acceptance of the contract, $1 a head about September 1, 1934, and $2 a head about February 1, 1935.

PROCESSING TAXES

Money for the benefit payments will be derived from a processing tax on both corn and hogs. The rate of this tax will be determined by the Secretary of Agriculture. Initial processing tax on hogs will be 50 cents a hundredweight of live animal, and becomes effective November 5. This tax will be increased at intervals until it is $2 a hundredweight February 1, 1934.

A tax will be collected on corn processed commercial, commencing with the marketing year which begins in November.

CONCENTRATED IN 10 STATES

Between one and one-half and two million farmers in the United States produce corn and hogs on a commercial scale. The majority of these live in 10 middlewestern state, including Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota, Minnesota, and Wisconsin.

FARMERS HANDLE PROGRAM

Activities in the various states will be largely in the hands of county Corn-Hog Production Control Associations. These will choose their own officers and directors. Membership will be confined to farmers who sign adjustment agreements with the Triple A. County extension agents have been delegated to assist with the early stages of the program.

MAD DOG

IT'S scarcely fun being bitten by a dog with rabies. But at least the State of Ohio will pay all expenses for treatment. That's the law.

But the victim of tuberculosis doesn't fair so well. More than likely he'll be compelled, because of lack of financial aid, to mingle with his family, friends and fellow workers, spreading the deadly germs and exposing hundreds to suffering and death.

Tuberculosis can be cured—right here in Ohio—provided the patient can be given proper care and treatment. Why deny these unfortunates the right to recovery and a long, happy life? Why needlessly expose others in a community to this dreadful disease?

NOTHING should be permitted to stop the fight against tuberculosis. Every locality should make adequate provision for the care of needy tuberculous patients for the safety and protection of all. Write for free copy of "Blacking Out the White Plague."

To The Citizens of Pickaway County . . .

Some apparently irresponsible persons have been attempting to circulate the report that I am ambitious to become the next superintendent of the Pickaway County schools. That report is wholly false. Such a report is, probably, being promoted by persons who have a selfish interest in it. If not selfish, then it must be prompted by either ignorance, or meanness. A coward would, of course, circulate such a report if he were afraid first to ask me if it were true.

I am NOT, in any sense, an applicant for the county superintendency when that position is open as it will soon be. My interest in the present County Board election is to join hands with a lot of good people in this county to abolish forever the pernicious influence of a group of trouble-makers and to break whatever strangle-hold the American Book Company still has upon the schools of the county. I have no further ambition than the one stated and with the help of good citizens everywhere, that is what we are going to do.

Yours very truly,

M. C. WARREN.

THAT'S MY BOY!

by FRANCIS WALLACE
AUTHOR OF "HUDDLE"

SYNOPSIS

Thomas Jefferson Randolph . . . now a great football prospect at famous Thorndyke University . . . was born of humble parents, Mom and Pop, in a little Middle West factory town where he won early renown as a brilliant high school back so much so that the great eastern college had lured him to its swanky halls. Tommy came home for Christmas, spent much of the time trying to polish household manners, did not return Easter, but during his summer vacation he caused a most profound sensation throughout critical Athens by flashing on that burg the very latest in sport togs, white knickers, flannels, et al. The neighbors are rather caustic but, as Mom explains it, "if you fly with fine birds you must wear fine feathers" referring to her boy's "millionaire college chums" . . . However, Tommy's social and sartorial splendor causes another flare-up between those two veteran Democrats, Pop and Uncle Louie, the stalwart Thorndyke freshman constantly correcting the grammar, diction, etc., of his workaday elders. . . .

Tommy rested and golfed (with "Dot" Whitney) for two weeks as part of his between-season football training.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

Tommy talked much differently than he had before, even when he was home at Christmas. He didn't laugh so much and was more dignified; and he used better grammar except when he let something slip like that "attaboy." Mom could see he was trying to improve himself and so she didn't mind it so much when he corrected her grammar. Everybody should talk right, particularly when they had a son at Thorndyke.

"Don't pay no attention to that bagga wind," Pop said.

"Don't pay any attention, Father," Tommy corrected him.

"I said no attention."

"But any attention is correct."

"You knew what I meant, didn't you?"

"Yes, Father, but—"

"Then what the dang difference does it make what words I use?"

"It's just the way it sounds."

"Listen, Son, you're going to college and you talk the way you want; but I went to the school of hard knocks and I talk the way I learnt there. Now don't bother me no more."

But Mom felt sorry for Pop just the same; particularly after that when she caught him correcting himself when he was talking to outsiders. It was the same way with her; but when they had a son like Tommy they didn't want to disgrace him.

Still, Pop was funny. She caught him looking at some of Tommy's outfits and shaking his head. She knew he didn't quite see why Tommy had to wear them, just like everybody else; even Mom didn't, for that matter; but Pop had declared himself before Uncle Louie and he'd stick to it because you'd never catch Pop admitting he was wrong.

Then came the job.

Soon as Tommy came home Pop had started using his influence to get a job for him. It wasn't hard, because Mom knew Charlie Whitney had a soft spot in his heart for Tommy and almost everybody in town would have been proud to have him work for them, for that matter; but Pop made a big to-do about it and came home with the news he had a place for Tommy on the lears, which was where the glass was picked up after it had been tempered.

"But I don't want to work yet, Father," Tommy explained.

"You didn't go to college to learn how to be a loafer, did you?" Pop asked, indignantly.

Then Tommy explained. Mom couldn't understand it very well but the way Tommy told it she knew he was right.

He needed some rest, first. Pop laughed at that—he couldn't see that at all, how anybody needed rest when they had been doing nothing but wasting time at college. Then Tommy had to improve his golf game, he said. Pop was fit to be tied and started a sermon about he wasn't keeping a house for nutty guys who played cow-pasture pool, which was what the men at the factory called it; although Mom knew none of them had ever seen the golf.

But Tommy was patient and explained the whole thing.

"In the kind of work I'll be doing, Father," he said, "golf is important. Big business men get together in a golf game and talk over deals as they go around the course; so it just isn't for the fun of it. If a fellow can't play a good game of golf he's handicapped.

"But I don't want to play golf all summer. I've got it all mapped out. I'll rest and golf for two weeks, then I'll work for six weeks, and the tougher the job the better because I want to be hard as nails when I quit and go back to school in shape. Then I'll rest another week before I go back. I went over the whole program with Coach Taylor before I left."

Pop was satisfied if Tommy was willing to work some and Mom was glad because the boy seemed to be enjoying himself so much at the golf — and because almost every day he went with Dorothy Whitney in her car to the Smithville Country Club where her father was a member and where some of Tommy's school friends played.

Then, true to his promise, he went to work in the factory at a harder job than on the lears; he was a trucker and carried boxes of ware to the packer's benches and then took the barrels away and put them in stock. This work was almost all lifting and everybody said Tommy was a real good worker. On account of being so tall they said he could lift higher than his head and could pile the boxes up higher than anybody else; and they said there was nobody could break down a stack of barrels like Tommy. Everybody seemed real surprised at the way he worked and Mom knew Pop was very proud of the way he showed the knockers that he could do hard work if he really wanted to.

Tommy worked the day turn which gave him his evenings off. It did Mom's heart good to see the way he put away a good meal and she could almost see him growing and getting bigger and stronger, particularly around the shoulders. Charlie Whitney stopped to talk to Pop once and told him Tommy would give the "Big Three" lines plenty of trouble; and when Pop told Mom she knew Tommy would although she didn't want him to get into trouble with anybody; but Charlie Whitney seemed to think it was something to be proud of, so Mom was proud too.

In the evenings after supper—Mom could never remember to call it dinner, it seemed—Tommy would go down town and talk football or go to the movies with Dorothy or take a ride in her car. They were keeping steady company but the best Mom could ever get out of Tommy about it was that Dot was a good scout.

Tommy never gave any of his money at home but this was all right because he was buying himself more clothes and saving up for spending money. He got himself a lot of fancy-striped underwear which the neighbor ladies used to look at and shake their heads. All of the neighbors always watched the washings that were hung out and Mom's was always spotless as she took a pride in hanging out lovely washings; but she noticed that even Joie Farrell still wore the plain white beeveedees which went to show that he was just the same bump on a log and wasn't learning much at college.

Sure enough, Joie was working the vacation at the mill over the river and doing just what Pop said the chemists did over there, which was test iron every so often and then sleep between tests; which proved that Pop knew what he had been talking about all right. Nobody paid much attention to Joie who went moping along and didn't seem to bother anybody, which was more than could be said for his mother. Joie and Tommy said hello whenever they met and seemed to be real friendly and once Mom heard them talking about the football although she didn't know what a shrimp like Joie would know about the football as he hardly knew he was alive.

MOVIES

AT THE GRAND

The Great Marquis, World's Master Magician, and his company have arrived in Circleville for a two night engagement at the Grand Theatre commencing tonight. Marquis brings the largest production of mystic thrills since Blackstone's appearance here several years ago.

This afternoon he entertained the student body of the Circleville High School and at 4 p. m. the noted mystifier drove an automobile through the business section while blindfolded with cotton, adhesive tape and several thicknesses of canvas.

Marquis will present his well known expose of spiritualism exactly as it has been produced in New York at a midnight performance. Marquis' spirit show which he chooses to call "An hour in a Spookeasy" will be presented as a special midnight feature Friday night.

AT THE GRAND

One of the strangest stories of a triangular love affair is told in the Warner Bros. picture "Mary Stevens M. D.," which comes to the Grand Theater on Wednesday. The triangle involves Kay Francis, the star, Lyle Talbot and Thelma Todd.

A boy and a girl, playmates from childhood, study medical surgery together, pass their apprenticeship as internes in the same hospital and set up practice in adjoining offices, their friendship ripening into love.

The ambition of the man, however, sees an opportunity in a marriage with the daughter of a powerful politician. So the childhood sweetheart steps aside, although she continues to watch over the man she loves with a mothering instinct.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Characters that might have stepped out of your family album hold the center of the stage in "Another Language" which shows tonight at the Cliftona Theatre with Helen Hayes and Robert Montgomery co-starring.

The picture, filmed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer from the Rose Franken stage hit that ran for more than a year on Broadway, is a study in middle-class family life. It deals frankly with the eternal problem of marriage and relatives. In this case it is the Hallams, the stodgy family of the husband, that makes all the trouble.

In the role of the young wife who is more interested in art than washing dishes, Miss Hayes achieves the most touching and human performance of her screen career, in the opinion of this reviewer. Her shading of the character is superb and she handles the difficult situations as convincingly as though they were her very own.

ASHVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hudson and little daughter, Ellen Joan, and son, Dick, motored to Dayton, Saturday and visited over Sunday with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Creager and family of Stoutsville visited Sunday with her mother, Mrs. Jennie Hudson on East-st.

Mrs. Mildred Messick will entertain the Past-Chief's Club at her home on Powell-st, Thursday afternoon, Oct. 26. A lunch will be served all members are urged to be present.

Mrs. Mable Foltz, who underwent an operation the first of the week at St. Frances hospital in Columbus, is reported as improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mowery and family of Columbus visited Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Grover Cline and family.

George Petty is in the hospital in Columbus for treatment. He has been sick at home for several weeks with grippe.

BIG BAD WOLVES

Painful Wry-Neck Is Sudden in Its Attack

It Disappears Quickly, Too, Unless It Is Congenital or Due to Neglect in Childhood

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

IT IS NOT unusual for somebody to awaken in the morning with a severe pain in the neck. On going to bed there was no pain, but in the morning it is almost impossible to turn the head. The victim holds his head tilted toward the painful side with the chin pointing upward. This is what happens in that uncomfortable condition known as "wry-neck".

Dr. Copeland

Wry-neck, or "torticollis", as it is called by the medical profession, is an inflammation of the muscles of the neck. It may involve both sides of the neck, but as a rule only one side is affected. The inflammation can usually be traced to an exposure to cold or wet.

Attacks Overnight

Perhaps the sufferer falls asleep in a draught or without sufficient bedclothes. He is awakened during the night with a sharp shooting pain in the neck. This is relieved when the head is held in the position I have described. At times the unsuspecting victim may sleep on until morning, when he finds himself stricken. This painful affliction is more alarming than serious. Of course, the suddenness of the attack is more or less bewildering. Fortunately the symptoms soon disappear.

There is a type of torticollis that does not disappear with simple treatment, but requires an operation for complete cure. I refer to that form of wry-neck which can be traced to neglect of inflammation in early childhood. It may be the result of a difficult birth with injury to the muscles of the infant's neck.

Operation in Severe Cases

If this condition is neglected, the muscles become weak and permanent deformity results. This deformity causes an alteration in the normal position of the spine. Twisting of the head may lead to faulty development of the muscles of the face, with change in the facial expression. It may even affect the speech.

May I assure the worried mother that the operation is not a difficult one and need cause no alarm. By a simple procedure the shortened muscle is cut. This allows the head to return to the proper position instead of being pulled to one side.

After the tendon is severed, a plaster of paris bandage is placed around the neck, head and under both arms. This cast keeps the head in normal position, corrects the deformity and allows the cut muscle to heal.

This may sound like a formidable procedure but in reality it is simple. The results are extremely successful and that is the best part of it.

After healing takes place the muscles are massaged. The young victim is instructed in special exercises of the head. These improve the tone and strength of the diseased muscles. Within a short time it is difficult to recognize that the child ever suffered from wry-neck.

Answers to Health Queries

Mrs. J. F. Q.—What would be apt to cause shortness of breath, after eating, in a child of 11 years of age? My little girl complains of this and today I noticed that she was troubled about two hours after eating.

A.—This may be due to several causes. Have the child examined. In the meantime make sure that she is not overeating or overdoing in any way.

L. C. Q.—I have been having a great deal of trouble with my gums. There is pain whenever I take anything hot or very cold, even cold air into my mouth. The trouble seems to be at the gum line. The pain seems to go through my face. What would you advise?

A.—Have a thorough examination, including X-ray, if necessary, to locate the underlying source of infection. Your dentist will advise you more definitely.

Marian Martin Patterns

PATTERN 9763

Every well balanced wardrobe should include two skirts—one in a sturdy fabric for knockabout and one for more dressy occasions in velvet, silk or soft wool. Here's good news—two can be made from this pattern! The Sew Chart included, shows you how to make both an eight-gored and also a six-gored model. Note the diagonal line of the yoke, designed to take inches from the hips and, of course, we all know how panels slenderize the figure.

Pattern 9763 may be ordered only for waist sizes 26, 28, 30, 32 and 34 inches. Each skirt in size 28 requires 1¾ yards 54 inch fabric.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

THE WINTER EDITION OF THE MARIAN MARTIN PATTERN BOOK shows all the new style highlights. This book will guide you to a distinctive wardrobe at little cost. SEND FOR IT TODAY. PRICE OF PATTERN BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER, TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

TRADE MARK REGISTERED

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

John J. Pershing, of the Tenth Cavalry, then commander of university cadets.

Now Pershing has an office down the corridor from Dern. Gold letters over the door read: "General of the Armies."

Dern registered at the University of Nebraska in 1894. His name is in the college register, is marked with an asterisk, meaning that he was "somewhat irregular." He suffered from a handicap in entrance requirements due to the fact that he had completed only three out of the required 30 2-3 hours of preparatory work.

Under Pershing, Dern was a member of the Cadet Band, where he is listed as "private and second alto." Apparently he never graduated.

Free Coinage

Poker-faced Key Pittman is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, but international affairs will not be his first interest when Congress reconvenes.

He has all ready and waiting a bill to authorize the free coinage of American silver. Pittman asserts that such a measure would be a determining factor in restoring the prosperity of the country.

NOTE—Pittman comes from Nevada, the largest silver producing state in the Union. He is up for re-election in 1934.

Soviet Merry-Go-Round

Russia owns one of the finest embassies in Washington . . . It has been occupied only by a caretaker for sixteen years, soon will be occupied again . . . The most significant fact about the Roosevelt-Russian note exchange is the way Soviet altitude toward Japan recently stiffened . . . No one knew why at the time, but the answer is in Moscow's receipt of Roosevelt's message . . . . President Kalinin referred to this indirectly when he told Roosevelt that failure of the United States and Russia to have normal relations had an "unfavorable effect upon the general international situation." . . . Maxim Litvinoff, who will come to Washington, is the man who spanked ex-Secretary of State Stimson when the latter lectured Russia about sending troops into Manchuria . . . It was one of the worst diplomatic spankings in recent history . . . Two days before Roosevelt announced his Russian move, Steve Early, White House Secretary, issued an emphatic denial that Russian recognition was under consideration . . . Newspapermen wrote the story anyway . . . Roosevelt's Russian invitation was sent over the head of Billy Phillips his under secretary of state. Phillips, a career man of the school, dislikes anything pertaining to the Soviet.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

WHEN Mr. and Mrs. Robinson took their Bobette to dinner at the Skinks' house, it turned out that Mr. Skinks had been to a party the night before, and he sat down to the dinner table at his own house that day with a right black eye.

So Bobette was looking and staring at the black eye, and Mrs. Robinson, across the table, gave her a terrible look and shook her head a little.

Bobette spoke right up. "Well, Mom," she says, "I ain't going to say a word about it. Honest, I wasn't going to ask him how it happened. But ain't I got a right to look at it a little bit?"

NEWSPAPERS OBTAIN BULK OF VICK ADS

GREENSBORO, N. C., Oct. 25.— In accordance with its policy for nearly 30 years, the Vick Chemical Company announced today that newspapers will receive most of the heavy advertising this season for Vicks VapoRub, Vicks Nose & Throat Drops, Vick Medicated Cough Drops and Vicks Vaporone Antiseptic.

Vicks advertising and expansion program for this season is one of the largest in the company's history - a continuation of past policies.

During the past four years Vicks has increased its advertising 150 per cent. It has increased the number of its employes 72 per cent and maintained salaries at the high 1929 levels. Throughout this period other companies were curtailing their advertising or eliminating it entirely, discharging millions of employes and slashing salaries.

Vicks has continued the aggressive merchandising that has always characterized its sales policies. In these four years — probably the most disastrous economically that America has ever known - Sales of Vick products have increased from 26,000,000 packages in 1929 to more than 52,000,000 packages this year.

NEW YORK SOCIETY WOMAN SUES FOR MILLION AND HALF

Mrs. Doubleday Names Harold McCormick In Breach Of Promise Act.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—Attorneys for Mrs. Rhoda Tanner Doubleday, New York society woman, today announced they would press for an early hearing in the $1,500,000 suit started by Mrs. Doubleday against Harold F. McCormick, millionaire harvester magnate.

With the filing of the praecipe of the suit in circuit court here Attorney William B. Gemmil, Jr., stated that Mrs. Doubleday's action is for breach of promise to marry after an asserted, friendship that extended over a year.

Attorney Henry A. Uterhart of New York, the plaintiff's chief counsel, asserted that Mrs. Doubleday is in "deadly earnest" and expects to push for an early hearing of her charges.

"I am awfully sorry. I have nothing to say," the Chicago society man stated when informed of the suit.

WILL FIGHT CASE

Friends of McCormick, however, said he will fight the case to the limit.

Mrs. Doubleday, who is in her thirties, is prominent in New York society. She is the divorced wife of Felix Doubleday, New York book publisher.

McCormick, now 61 years old, was divorced in 1921 by the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick. In 1922 he married Ganna Walska, Polish opera singer, in Paris. He won an uncontested divorce degree from the singer here in 1931, charging desertion.

Sixty-eight letters received by Mrs. Doubleday over a period of a year in New York and at Santa Barbara, Cal., where she visited with her mother, form the bais of the heart balm suit, Attorney A. M. Schaffer, an associate of Uterhart, asserted.

PRINCETON, N. J. — Miller chapel of Princeton Theological Seminary which was removed to a new location on the campus during the summer and restored to more nearly resemble the orginal chapel built in 1883, has been rededicated by the Rev. Dr. J. Ross Stevenson, president of the seminary.

'CLUB MAYFLOWER' ORCHESTRA BOOKED

The Elks' Hallowe'en dance to be held Tuesday evening, Oct. 31, at the Elks club promises to be one of the outstanding Hallowe'en affairs held here this year.

The Club Mayflower orchestra, a new band unit composed of high class musicians, will furnish music from 9 until 1 o'clock. This orchestra has been playing for a number of university dances and night clubs.

The public is cordially invited to attend. The dance is neither masquerade nor formal. Tickets will be sold at the door.

A number of out-of-town persons are planning to attend this affair which is expected to be the biggest since the New Year's breakfast dance.

The committee in charge is comprised of Dr. G. D. Phillips, Link Mader, Emmitt Crist, Dr. R. F. Lilly, Hildeburn Jones, Lemuel Weldon and Mack Mader.

Better Cooks for CCC

BOURNE, Mass.—Because the biscuits were so hard they could not be eaten, but were used as missiles, Colonel Walter S. Grant, chief of staff of the First Corps Area, ordered that hereafter, in the kitchens of forestry camps in New England experienced male cooks, gray-haired if necessary, be employed instead of detailing a member of the "army."

A new farm tractor is said to have a speed of 25 miles an hour. Probably built especially for plowing under crops.

BATHROOM ANTICS

LYNN, Mass.—Water pouring under the bathroom door, indicated to the mother of David Sternich, 2, and Ruth, 3, that they were in the bathroom but she couldn't unlock the door, so she called firemen. They crept through a window and found David about to shave himself with his father's razor, and Ruth practicing high diving from a radiator into the bathtub which had overflowed.

FAILURES

Few failures are more pathetic than that of a man who, intent upon becoming immensely rich, has lost the power to enjoy the things which money buys.

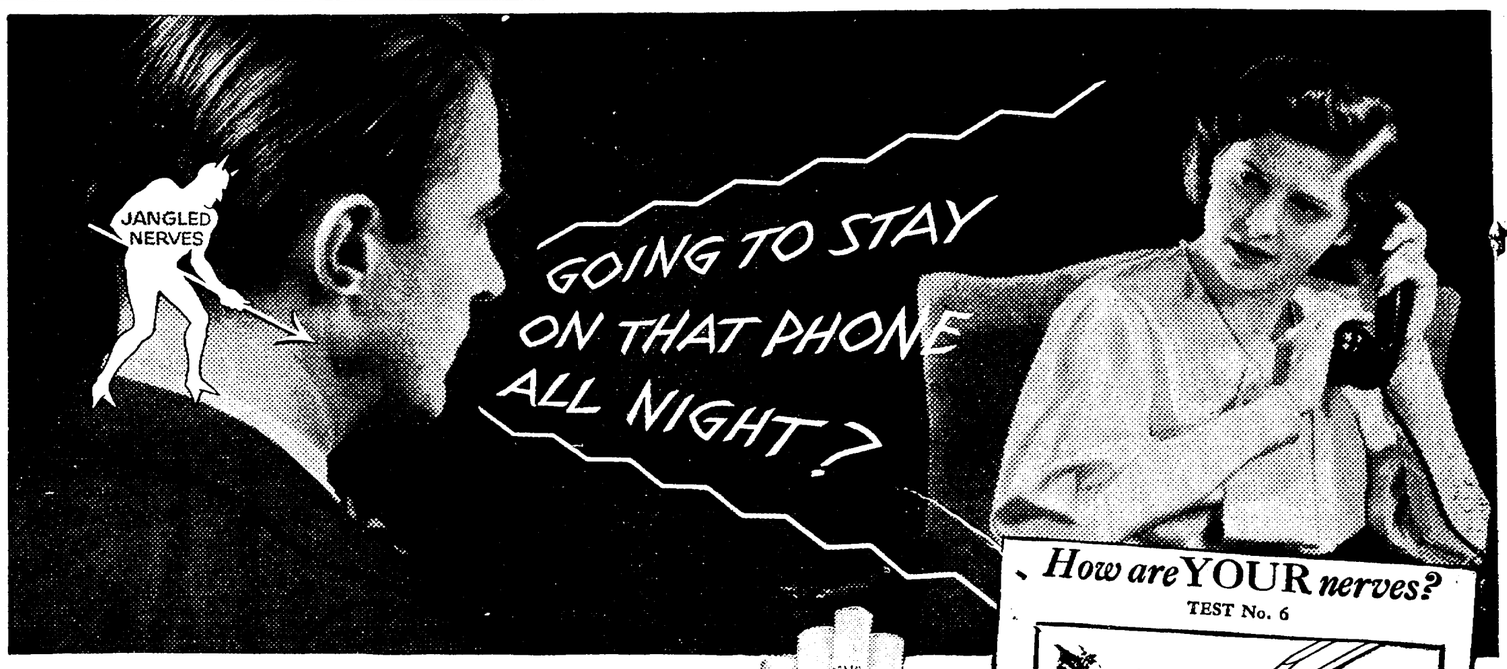
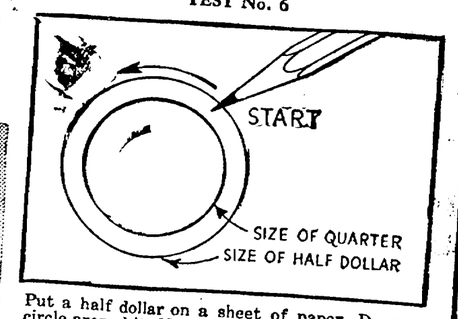
FORD
The discriminating public knows how automobiles are made in Wayne County Detroit. Many of the buyers are mechanics, and they go farther than just looks. Ford is first in registrations, 2,555; next car, 1325; next car, 917. The Ford V-8 has outstanding quality built into every feature. QUALITY? Why, it is everywhere you look. Features only found in the highest priced cars. No car has finer materials, workmanship, or design. The Ford V-8 is two years in advance of other low priced cars. There is a reason why the Ford will give a sustained speed of 80 miles—which is much faster than cars of our opposition.



Do jangled nerves make you say things you'll regret?
How many times in the course of a week do you snap at someone? If you check very carefully you will probably find that it happens more times than you realize.
For one of the dangers of jangled nerves is that the victim so seldom knows about his own condition. It not only hurts others—but himself as well.
The more alert you are, the more high-strung and alive, the greater danger there is of jangled nerves.
Get your full amount of sleep every night. Eat regularly and sensibly. Find time for recreation. And smoke Camels—for Camel's costlier tobaccos never get on your nerves.
COSTLIER TOBACCOS
Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand of cigarettes!

How are YOUR nerves?
TEST No. 6



Put a half dollar on a sheet of paper. Draw a circle around it. Now place a real quarter in the exact center of this circle. Holding your pencil 3" above the point—do not rest your hand or wrist—see how many circles you can draw around the quarter without touching the outside circle or moving the coin. Have someone time you for 10 seconds. Average score is 3 circles.
Major William C. Brooks (Camel Smoker), famous stunt flier, completes 5 circles in 10 seconds.
